

As a resident of Indiana, I would like to see the federal regulation as comprehensive as Indiana's or the option for the state to maintain the more stringent regulation. With the requirement that residents request to be placed on the no call list, the residents of Indiana have spoken loud and clear. We don't want telemarketers entering our homes. Allowing additional exceptions to the Indiana law defeats the purpose of the no call law. If we choose to change our long distance carrier, we will initiate the call. We don't want unsolicited calls.
